Pros and Cons of

Governor McMath's Legislative Program

THE NEW SESSION of the General Assembly isn't half a week old but a stiff fight has already broken out between the lawmakers and Governor McMath. It began with his opening message, and has been picking up momentum ever since.

The governor presented an extensive tax program — one that left the legislators gasping. But after the shock wore off they got out their knives and started whittling on the governor's favorite bureau.

Rep Robert Harvey of Jackson county brought in a bill to reduce the staff of Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley. Governor McMath promptly came to Morley's defense.

The governor said Morley needs every one of his 20-man staff of liquor investigators — and I'll ride with the governor in that argument. You can't control the liquor traffic without inspectors, any more than you can operate a trunk highway system with state police.

But on his general tax program Governor McMath is in trouble. He is trying to raise an additional 19 or 20 million dollars a year in taxes. Extra levies are proposed against liquor, tobacco, soft drinks and other items. But for 10 millions of that 20-million tax increase he depends on a single bold move — doubling the state income tax rate.

The legislature is defying the governor on that one — and on that one I'll ride with the legislature.

[NOTE THAT this morning's Arkansas Gazette gives the McMath program a plug by stating the governor is correct in contending Arkansas' income tax rate is "one of the lowest in the nation."

But so is Arkansas' ad valorem property assessment rate one of the lowest in the nation.

The Gazette story is based on a survey originating with the University of Arkansas, a tax-supported institution, politically close to the governor's office. Therefore we suspect the evidence is being trimmed to fit the argument.

This writer has been telling you that if the expanded state and local government expenses are actually necessary there are only two alternatives by which the money can be found:

"The state might go into the liquor dispensary business, picking up an additional 16 million dollars a year — in which case the state could continue its program of aid to local school districts; a program that is now being curtailed."

But I don't know where else the state can raise 10 millions' more taxes.

WHICH BRINGS US to the second alternative: If the state can't pay for the school expansion which it advised local districts to go into, then the schools must be supported locally — which means a vast increase in local assessments and taxes. I think this is the answer.

Income taxation has already been appropriated by the federal government and the states have very little chance to pick up additional revenue in that direction.

But real and personal property are subject to state and local taxation only — and on this front Arkansas' record is one of the most derelict in the nation.

Bethel AME to Be Host to Quarterly Church Conference

Labor Leaders Favor Flexible Pay-Price Plan

Washington, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Major labor leaders said today the government must mould a wage-price policy flexible enough to work for a decade.

They gave that appraisal to the wage stabilization board, an arm of the economic stabilization agency (ESA) which announced last night that it will not now put into effect a temporary 30-day freeze on prices and wages.

That left the controls situation as indefinite as it was a week or so ago before ESA began giving serious study to the wisdom of applying an immediate interim freeze in advance of more permanent controls.

The appeal for a long-range policy came from spokesmen for the AFL, CIO, machinists and railroad unions, joining in testimony as the United Labor Policy Committee (ULPC). They said the present emergency may stretch on indefinitely, and "we're not planning for a short-term situation."

The group represented all major elements of the organized labor movement except John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers (UMW) chief who was heard separately by the wage board yesterday. He advised against any kind of wage or price controls.

The other labor officials today accepted the theory that there must be some kind of stabilization program — although they did not attempt to tell the board what kind of formula to adopt.

They made these general points in a prepared statement:

1. There can be no wage controls without an all-out program of price stabilization, taxation to combat inflation through excess profits and higher individual taxes.

2. Wage stabilization is a supplement to collective bargaining, not a substitute for it. A gradual adjustment of inequities under a wage control program must be left to bargaining, they said.

3. The wage board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, must have real authority to make decisions. "It can't be an adviser to an assistant to Mr. Wilson," they said. Under the present defense act, the board advises economic Administrator Alan Valentine, who in turn is under mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.

4. The defense act must be amended to permit tough controls on food prices. They cannot now sink below the level prevailing just before the Korean War or parity, whichever is higher. Parity is a calculated price said by law to be fair to both farmers and consumers.

In dropping for the present the idea of an immediate price-wage freeze, Valentine accepted to the judgment of those advisers who believe general price controls would be unwise until there is a bigger staff to administer them.

Proposes 6-1 Ratio for Europe

Washington, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) proposed today a six-to-one ratio for arming Western Europe against Communist aggression with the United States ultimately furnishing 10 divisions and the other North Atlantic nations 60.

Knowland said it was vital that Western Europe not be allowed to fall into Communist hands, but he held that the bulk of the defensive land forces should be furnished by the European themselves.

"If war comes," he said, "we must then do with our air, sea and land forces what the strategic necessities require in support of our commitments. We will not let our Allies down nor must they let us down."

In a speech prepared for senate delivery Knowland pleaded for unity within this country and between the free nations of the world, saying history has taught us "we must hang together or be hanged separately."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee also expected to deliver a foreign policy speech during the day.

Senate Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona likewise planned a speech on foreign affairs. He told reporters yesterday it would be primarily a plea for harmony and unity.

Knowland, a vigorous critic of administration Far Eastern policy, strongly urged a reconciliation of differences between congress members and the administration on all foreign issues.

He said no effective foreign or national defense policy could be formulated or executed without cooperation.

The California lawmaker took a stand with New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and John Foster Dulles, adviser to Secretary of State Acheson, in opposition to a foreign policy pronouncement by former President Herbert Hoover. All three are Republicans.

Knowland also appeared to oppose the resolution of senate Republican Leader Wherry demanding that no American ground troops be sent to Western Europe "pending determination by congress" of an overall policy on the issue.

Police Have Busy Year Report Shows

The Hope City Police had a busy year in 1950, according to the annual activity report filed this week by the department with Mayor Lyle Brown. Fines assessed for the year amounted to $12,704.

Principal items of business handled by the City force are listed as follows:

Illegal Liquor Cases 68
Reckless Driving 22
Drivers and Auto Licenses 62
Speeding 66
Drunk Driving 12
Carrying Concealed Weapons 8
Traffic Accidents 121
Gambling 40
Petty Larceny 4
Assault and Battery 42
Disturbing Peace 61
Drunkness 217
Dogs Destroyed 127

Cases such as burglary and other crimes involving penitentiary offenses are turned over to the State for prosecution. Chief Baker reported that the number of felonies committed within the City during 1950 were at a minimum.

Mayor Brown expressed appreciation to the Department "for a job well done" and to the Sheriff and State Police for their co-operation "which has been invaluable in law-enforcement in our city."

Assistant Chief Alvin Willis left this week for Washington D. C. to attend the FBI Police Training school. Upon completion of the course he will in turn instruct all City patrolmen in the latest methods of law-enforcement and crime prevention.

In one day Far East Combat Carriers Command airplanes bombed 1,000 pounds of explosives into the city.

U. S. Planes Lash Enemy Troops

U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters, Korea, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Allied warplanes lashed today at Communist troops and supplies and reported they killed or wounded more than 1,400 Reds.

It was their first change in two days to hit the Chinese invaders of Korea. Ground-hugging clouds had prevented their usual close teamwork with their buddies on the snowy ground.

The heaviest strike was in the Suwon area south of Seoul. About 100 fighters caught huge enemy "concentrations" in the open and inflicted casualties on nearly 1,100 of them, headquarters reported. A total of 215 sorties had flown throughout Korea in the three hours of clear weather this afternoon.

Headquarters said F-80 jets of the 49th Fighter Bomber wing made the largest kill in the Suwon area when they shot up 200 troops in one concentration. Supplies, box cars, locomotives and buildings also were hit near Suwon.

The Seoul area also was pounded heavily. F-80 pilots killed or wounded 160 troops and damaged buildings, vehicles and supplies.

In central Korea some 50 Reds were killed or wounded in the Ilo-Ilo and Wonju areas. Two buildings were destroyed. American planes also demolished 15 buildings at Chunchon north of Wonju and strafed 20 troops and 15 pack horses at the junction of the Han and Pukhan rivers, 15 miles east of Seoul.

P-51 Mustangs swept north of the 38th parallel and shot up troops, camels and horses near Hungnam and north of Kuesong. Bridges were the main targets.

P-47 Thunderbolts struck bridges, buildings and Red soldiers on the west coast near Yangyang. South African airforce P-51s started two fires at Pyongyang, 20 miles north of the north-south border.

Manpower Policy to Be Announced

Washington, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Mrs. Anna R. Rosenberg said today President Truman plans to issue a new "national manpower mobilization policy" within the next few days.

The woman assistant secretary of defense said the presidential directive would ask industry, agriculture, military and civilian groups to conserve available manpower.

Mrs. Rosenberg, who was brought to the defense department as a manpower expert, mentioned the prospective new order at a senate hearing in response to a question from Senator Stennis (Miss.) as to plans for draft deferment of young men engaged in farm work.

Stennis wanted to know whether sufficient young farm workers would be deferred to produce the increase food and farm crops that will be needed for the expanding mobilization program.

Mrs. Rosenberg did not elaborate to the senators on her statement and would give no details to reporters who questioned her later.

She did say that in general the order will require that "we do our job and do it right."

She said that would involve each group viewing its own manpower needs against the needs of the

State Education Dept. Probe Is Before Senate

By HARLEY PERSHING

Little Rock, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Possibility of an investigation of the Arkansas Education department popped up today as the senate convened for another busy session. Suggesting an investigation was Sen. Bob Bailey, Jr., of Russellville who said he had learned the education department now has to forestall an immediate financial crisis.

Bailey reported there is nearly $2,000,000 in the state school fund now; an additional $3,000,000 will go into the fund between now and the end of February, and that by June 1 the fund will total about $11,000,000.

The education department has warned that unless it gets $6,000,000 by July 1 schools may not be able to operate on a full term this year.

Senator Bailey said that if the education department is withholding money he thought "there should be a full scale investigation."

The senate passed without a dissenting vote today a bill appropriating $235,000 from the general revenue fund for operation of the house during the current 60 day session.

This proposal goes to the governor for his signature.

Passage of the bill without comment was a complete reversal of proceedings when the measure was called up for passage in the house yesterday.

Numerous efforts to amend the bill were introduced in the house but were beaten down by a strong bloc.

The senate also passed a bill giving the Helena municipal judge an annual salary of $3,000. The post now pays $2,500 a year. The bill now goes to the house.

The senate yesterday received a proposal for the legislature to take over control of cash funds.

Cash funds are composed of moneys received by various state agencies other than by legislative appropriations. The legislature now has no control over such funds.

Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock yesterday introduced a bill which would require agencies handling cash funds to deposit them in the state treasury for legislative appropriation. The legislature in turn would be required to appropriate the money to the agency from which it came.

Money obtained from athletic activities — a form of college cash funds — would be exempt.

Sen. Grover Carnes of Stuttgart, who earlier proposed an audit of highway department expenditures from 1947 to the present, introduced a bill to make it unlawful to transfer equipment costing more than $500 from one state agency to another.

This apparently would prohibit

Allies Hack On Holding Line Central Front

Tokyo, Jan. 11 —(AP)—American, French and Dutch troops clung stubbornly tonight to a salient on the critical central Korean front in the face of 100,000 Reds missing in the Wonju area.

United Nations positions were stabilized amid a cracking of small-arms fire two miles south of the wrecked and empty town of Wonju which is 55 miles south-east of Seoul.

Except for the sporadic fire the front was quiet after a 7-hour battle in which 2,100 Korean Reds were estimated killed or wounded.

The Allies abandoned Wonju Monday. On Wednesday, a tank-led patrol of the U. S. Second Division pushed back into the town from the southeast.

Finding no Reds there, the patrol looked around for a while, then voluntarily withdrew towards the overlooking hills in the south.

South, on the road to Wonju, Chongju, the company-sized patrol was jumped by more than 7,000 North Koreans. At one stage the Americans fixed bayonets and charged.

After other Allied forces reinforced the patrol, the Reds broke off the battle Wednesday night.

But the greatest menace to Allied arms was shaping up in a 50-mile stretch between Chongju and Red-held Osan in western Korea. Chinese and Korean Red forces estimated at 285,000 were in the area or moving toward it in an apparent bid to cut off the main forces of the U. S. Eighth Army on the road south of abandoned Seoul.

In that area roads fan out through the hills, affording many avenues of approach to the Allied forces.

Correspondent John Randolph said the Chinese evidently hope to accept battle in the night, using suitable for attacks of night-fighting Red infantrymen.

Six Chinese armies were in the general western area, south of Seoul, and seven armies were north and west of Wonju. This force included many Mongolian cavalrymen. Intelligence officers said 500 Chinese planes and 200 tanks are available to back the push.

Another hint that the Reds may be about to challenge Allied mastery of the Korean skies came in far North Korea. Fifteen Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters attacked a B-29 superfortress as it lagged behind a formation because of engine trouble.

The B-29 took cover in a cloud bank but its gunners reported the possible kill of one Red jet. The bombers had dumped more than 100 tons of explosives on the airfield at Pyongyang, Korean Red capital, and other cities North.

Five murder charges against Cook were filed in Pawhuska. They concern the disappearance last week of Mr. and Mrs. Mosser, and their three children, of Atwood, Ill. The bodies, bullet-punctured, were found Jan. 3 near the site of the last manhunt.

Their bodies have not been found. The FBI has charges against Cook at Okla. City under the Lindbergh law, a possible death penalty, and law of Oklahoma and Arkansas have every farmer in the states search for the McGee Sunday.

Tips and clues kept the jump in Los Angeles, Francisco, Buena Vista, Mexico, N. M., Dillon, Colo. other points. Mexican soldiers engaged, too, in the U. S. Don't Pull Out of Korea

Jan. 11 —(AP)—The U. S. will not pull out of Korea, according to a statement by the State Department today. The statement said that the U. S. will not pull out of Korea until it is clear that the North Koreans are ready to negotiate a peace settlement.

prompt withdrawal. Korean Beach, veteran correspondent for the Chicago paper, said today he would "stand on the story" despite Chinese. His statement followed a declaration in Tokyo by Col. M. P. Behrle, MacArthur's public information officer, that the writer was "a liar." Beach said he had it from "authoritative sources."

The reinstatement of the policy laid down by President Truman early last month apparently means that the military is planning to hold on to a beachhead around the southern port city of Pusan as long as possible.

It is understood that some military men have argued in policy councils that a voluntary withdrawal might minimize losses to U. S. and United Nations forces and permit concentration of forces elsewhere in the Communist-plagued Far East.

On the other hand, although the U. N. troops are falling back before the Chinese, the Chinese and Korean forces, it is believed here they have a lot of fighting power left. And as yet there has been no decisive battle.

In view of that fact, Washington officials believe the U. N. Army will shortly make a stand. With its supply and communications lines shortened, it would be in a generally stronger defensive position than at any time since the Chinese Communist assault began.

At the same time, Communist supply lines strung back to Manchuria would provide a vulnerable target for air strikes. It is not impossible that such a situation is

The first bill outlining redistricting of Arkansas' 75 counties to cut congressional districts from seven to six, as required because of Arkansas' 10-year decrease in population, was introduced yesterday.

Little Rock, Jan. 11 —(AP)— The Arkansas house of representatives today unanimously ordered state Comptroller Letty Denney to get the full picture on school finance.

The resolution, authored by Rep. Paul Van Dusen of Perry county, asks Denney to prepare a verified statement of school funds now available.

Van Dusen also promised that he will introduce a bill allocating $1,500,000 from the revolving school fund to take care of fiscal emergencies in school districts.

Troopers Search North Arkansas for Bodies
Fayetteville, Jan. 11 —(AP)— Arkansas state police, working with sheriffs of Benton and Washington counties, this morning started checking areas near highways and main roads in search of the bodies of the Carl Mosser family.

The Mossers of Atwood, Ill., have been missing since January 3. A search over a wide area is in progress for Bill Cook, who is west out of Fayetteville to Oklahoma for questioning in connection with the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Mosser and their three children.

But this does not answer my correspondent's question of how, in a world full of girls, he is to find the particular one that he desires and who has the qualifications that he wants in a wife and, alas, neither I nor anyone else can tell him down what road to ride on his search, or on what doors to knock.

Certainly there are plenty of such girls as he desires for a wife — good-looking, charming, domestic girls who would be real helpmates to any man, girls who are eager to marry but who have a little chance of finding him as he has of finding them. They are waiting while he passes by on the other side of the street.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a friend who is a good woman, but she has a son who is ruining and who will break her heart later on unless she can be stopped from treating him as she does. She has worshipped him so that he thinks he is the most important person in the world. She has spoiled him until he is so selfish that he thinks every wish must be granted immediately. She manages all of his affairs, follows him on the telephone so she knows his whereabouts every minute, acts as his valet when he dresses, waits up and tucks him in bed. The boy is good-looking, intelligent, and has an especially nice personality. He's not physically fit for the service, he can't keep a job, and now that he is facing the world it is rocking under him and he is going to pieces. Is there any way that you can suggest to make his mother realize that she is ruining him?

Answer: You cannot convince a possessive mother of the fact that she is possessive, or make her realize that by keeping her child tied to her apron string she is doing him the worst possible harm that she can do to him. Her aim, in the first place, is that she isn't possessive and, in the second place, that she is doing it for the child's good.

If anyone told her that by keeping her children in a state of perpetual babyhood she was doing a worse thing than if she bound their feet so they couldn't walk, or U. S. something to their brains that turned them into morons, or put some pressure on their bodies that would stunt their growth so they would be dwarfs, she would be horrified. But when a mother deliberately unfits her children for life by making them dependent upon her, by never letting them use their own judgments, by never forcing any responsibility on them she is committing a crime that is far worse than any physical handicap she could put upon them.

Dear Miss Dix: When a boy and girl marry should they destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs from former sweethearts?

Answer: Certainly when people marry they should destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs of former sweethearts, and they should quit talking about their former loves.

Dear Miss Dix: When it came time for me to choose a career my father informed me that I would be trained for a schoolteacher. My natural talents follow the line of journalism and dramatics, but these my father scoffs at. Reluctantly I became a teacher, a poor one whose heart was not in her work. Now after three years at this occupation I am a complete nervous wreck. My 17-year-old sister desires to enter a business career but because of our father's domineering will she must train for a nurse, though the odor of a hospital repels her and she faints at the sight of blood. Our father believes us to be stubborn, ungrateful children and we think him lacking in understanding. Which of us is right, and what can we do about it?

Answer: Probably no other one thing has done more harm in the world than the colossal conceit of parents which makes them think they have a right to play the part of God to their children and decide their fates. Somehow they seem to think that with the advent of the first baby they are endowed with Almighty wisdom and become perfectly capable of directing and shaping the whole career of the life that has come into their hands.

This holds for infants in the early life this may be partially true, but such is not the case when it comes to deciding the matters which will affect the youngsters' whole life. Then Father and Mother do not always know what is best for the child because they cannot see into the child's mind or heart and know what is there, what hopes, desires, ambitions, talents lie hidden in the child's secret soul.

Innumerable fathers have forced dreamers into business, made lawyers and preachers of dummies and turned boys who would have been great writers, artists or musicians into grocery clerks, all because Father thought he had a right to decide his children's lives for them. That is what your father is doing. There is no greater crime that any man can commit because the round peg never fits into the square hole. People who are forced to do what nature never intended them to do are nearly always failures. The greatest happiness that any of us get is in following some congenial occupation and doing the thing we enjoy doing.

In your particular case the way out is plain if you have strength enough to follow it. Go on with your teaching and try to find out whether you have the ability to write or not. Just wanting to do it isn't enough. You have to have talent for it. And you can give yourself a tryout while you are still teaching. As for your sister, the first time she faints in an operating room will end her career as a nurse and leave the way open for her to go into business as she desires.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a boy

17 years old and I am in despair. Because I have a receding chin, as this is an evidence of weakness, mentally and physically. I am also under-sized, but I have led my class for five years. Yet on account of my physical makeup I feel it is useless to try to develop myself. I have brooded over this until I am almost a wreck.

Answer: Brace up, Adam, and put out your chin instead of drawing it in. If you have nothing more to complain of than not having a chin that sticks out like the prow of a battleship, you are in luck. So far as I am concerned, I've seen too many people's characters belie their physical make-up to put the slightest belief in the kind of features Nature wished on them — or the bumps on their heads.

After we get old, after life has carved its story on our faces, after we have thought good thoughts or bad, after we have been kind or cruel, our characters show in our faces. But when we are young, whether we have a straight nose or a turned up one, whether we have a little chin or a big one, doesn't give the slightest intimation of whether we are weak or strong, or whether we will be successes or failures in life.

It is our brains that count, and if you have led your class for five years, you needn't worry because your lack chin. You've got what it takes.

Dear Miss Dix: Are all husbands philanderers? Although I am only 20 I have a cynical attitude toward marriage because all around me I see married men having affairs with other women. You will probably say that this is not true of all husbands, but how can a girl tell before marriage whether or not her husband will be faithful?

Answer: Of course not all men are rogues. There are millions of men who are just as domestic as the housecat and who never think of straying away from their own firesides. They literally never see any woman other than their own wives. But, alas, there is no way by which a girl can tell before marriage whether she is getting a Joseph or a Don Juan.

"HOW I RELIEVE DISTRESS OF MONTHLY FEMALE AILMENTS which make me so nervous several days before!"

Read why Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is 'the woman's friend'

"Almost every month I suffered from cramps, headache, or backache—due to female functional ailments. What bothered me most was that I'd start feeling so nervous, tense and strangely restless several days before my period."

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve this distress. He told me to take it regularly throughout the month to help build up resistance against such female misery. (It tastes swell in a little fruit juice.) I must say Lydia Pinkham's Compound is simply wonderful and gives me amazing relief—not only from monthly pain but pre-period nervous tension and tired, dragged-out feelings of this nature. I urge every girl and woman troubled this way to try Pinkham's Compound."

Textarkaa Loses Fire Insurance Rating

Textarkaa, Ark., city council has cut off four new firemen employed Jan. 1 in an effort to forestall higher fire insurance rates.

The action came after Mayor B. R. McCarley announced the city has lost its 35-year-old fourth class fire insurance rating.

The mayor said the city has "lost its low rating" and therefore the new men need not be kept on the payroll. The action is effective Jan. 15, when the department will be reduced to 30 men plus a fire chief and an assistant.

In Little Rock, the Arkansas inspection and rating bureau said Textarkaa has not been placed in the fifth higher rate classification, but that it had been notified by the mayor that the city could not take recommended steps because of financial conditions making reclassification probable.

Only two other Arkansas cities, Little Rock and Fort Smith, have a fourth class fire insurance rating. The other major cities are in the fifth class.

Textarkaa insurance men estimated the change in classification would add $25,000 a year to fire insurance premiums paid in the city.

Mothers stretching from New York to within 50 miles of Chicago would be needed to ferry the ships, according to the 9th shipyard at the 17th street pier in New York.

Debt Problems of Men Called to Service

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Here are some questions and answers about the debt problems of men called into military service. The answers here come from government experts in this field:

Q—Suppose you're called into service and find, because your military pay is less than you made as a civilian, that you can't keep on paying the same rent for your family. Is he family thrown out?

A—You get some protection under the law, but only if the civilian rent you paid was less than $80 a month. If it was over $80, you get no protection. So this deals only with under-$80 rent people.

A landlord can't throw your family out unless he goes to court and then not unless the judge says he can throw your family out.

The judge can do a number of things. Let your family stay on indefinitely, let the family stay on three months or longer before letting the landlord put them out, or tell the armed forces to set aside some of your pay every month to pay the landlord some, if not all, the rent.

A lease on a house or apartment or business place—

You can break the lease by notifying the landlord you're going into uniform but, unless the landlord is willing, the lease can't be ended until 30 days after the next rent payment is due.

In some cases a landlord might think breaking the lease so soon would work a hardship on him. For example: If he spent a lot in decorating the place.

In such a case he might go to court. If the judge thinks the landlord would suffer a hardship by such a fast lease-break, he can order the lease to stay in effect longer than "30 days after the next payment is due."

Mortgages—
If you're in service and say you can't keep up the mortgage payments, the mortgagee can't do anything about it unless he first goes to court and asks a judge for help. The judge can:

1. Order the mortgagee to return to you all the payments you've already made and then foreclose on the property. This might happen in the case of a man who hasn't paid much on the mortgage.

2. Postpone the whole case so long as he, the judge, wishes.

3. Try to work out an agreement satisfactory to both sides.

4. Declare that the serviceman doesn't have to make any more payments until he gets out of service.

5. Order the mortgage foreclosed "without prejudice" to the serviceman. Which means: When the serviceman is discharged, he can renegotiate to get the house back. In other words: The mortgagee who foreclosed could rent the house but not sell it till the serviceman returned.

Buying on installment—
Suppose you bought a radio on time. Now you've been notified to report for military duty. You say you can't keep up the payments on our military pay.

Before going into service, you might try to work out a deal with the department store which sold you the radio to make smaller payments over a longer period of time.

The federal regulations limiting the length of time for civilians to pay off in full on installment purchases can be ignored in the case of servicemen.

But suppose you're already in service and the department store wants to collect on the radio or take it back. What then?

The store can't do anything without first suing you in court and then first suing you in court and then first suing you in court and then first suing you in court.

He can check with the military to see whether you can afford to keep up the payments. If he finds you can, he may order you to do so. If you don't, he can let the store take back the radio.

If he finds you can't pay then the judge can:

1. Say you don't have to make any payments for an indefinite period—months, maybe—or that you don't have to pay a dime more until you're out of service.

2. Or, he can order the payments reduced, giving you longer to pay.

3. Or, he could do other things. For example: He could order the store to return to you all the payments you've made and then take back the radio.

But what do you have to say about all this? Who's going to represent you?

You'll be notified in service of any suit filed against you. Then if you can't afford to hire a lawyer back home, the judge will appoint a lawyer to represent you.

When you get notice of a suit, be sure to consult the legal assistance officer in your outfit. If there is none, consult your commanding officer.

British Ask Meet Between U. S., China

London, Jan. 11 —(AP)—Informed sources reported today the British commonwealth nations have proposed a high level meeting between the United States and Red China to discuss a Korean settlement.

The proposed get-together would be under United Nations auspices, the informants said.

Neither the United States nor Red China has so far reacted to suggestion.

The new move apparently has the support of the leaders of all nine British commonwealth nations who have been discussing the tense situation in the Orient in the rest of the world in a conference which began here last Thursday.

Few details of the proposal were available, but its immediate objectives were clear.

It would seek to avoid formulation in the United Nations of new cease-fire resolutions which might prove unacceptable to either the U. S. or Red China. It would seek to defer offering of a projected U. S. resolution to have the U. N. brand Communist China an aggressor.

Britain, the commonwealth and many Western nations would find it difficult to support such a resolution. Some have recognized the Peiping government. All want to keep out of a limited or open war against Red China. They fear labeling Communist China an aggressor eventually would lead to imposition of economic sanctions against China, which could be a step to war.

The commonwealth prime ministers have been studying a set of principles which Britain and India are said to feel would help end the Korean war. These include admission of Red China to the U. N., renunciation of the big powers of the 1943 Cairo declaration promising return of Formosa to China, a timetable for withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea and a seat for Red China on any U. N. group set up to restore Korea politically and economically. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is said to have laid these principles before Indian Prime Minister Nehru last Friday—but the word "proposal" is avoided.

He threw the jeep into a spin. Hospital officials said Belton was with Walker during the European campaign of World War II, and at American and Far Eastern bases since the war. The sergeant has been hospitalized in Korea, Tokyo and Texas since the accident.

Ex-Arkansas Newspaperman Succumbs

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 11 —(AP)—A veteran newspaperman, Burns Bennett, was chosen today to head the state publicity department after the Persons administration takes over.

Appointement of the 37-year-old Montgomery bureau manager of the United Press was announced by Gov.-elect Gordon Persons. It is effective Feb. 1.

Bennett, a native of St. Francis, Ark., has been with the United Press for eight years except for 12 months when he was city editor of the Alabama Journal at Montgomery. Besides his present job here, he has been with the UP at Memphis, Tenn., and Atlanta.

Previously he did newspaper and radio work in Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico. He was once a sports writer for the Arkansas Democrat in Little Rock, city editor of the Pine Bluff Times Commercial.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bennett of Pine Bluff, he attended school there and at A. R. K. A. A. & M. and Louisiana State, and his wife, the former E. A. Robinson of Pine Bluff, have three daughters.

Gen. Walker's Driver Under Treatment

Hot Springs, Jan. 11 — (UP) — M-Sgt. George A. Belton, chauffeur of the jeep in which Gen. Walker was killed in Korea, was under treatment here today for injuries suffered in the same accident.

Belton, from Leesville, La., served nine years under Walker. The sergeant has multiple cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries from the wreck on Dec. 28. He said the jeep was struck by a three-quarter ton weapons carrier driven by a South Korean. Belton is being treated at the Army and Navy General Hospital at Hot Springs.

He said the weapons carrier plowed into the side of the jeep where Walker was seated. Belton was thrown to the side of the jeep.

McMath to Fight for Special Liquor Unit

Little Rock, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Gov. McMath said yesterday he would send a special message to the legislature opposing any effort to reduce or eliminate the revenue department's 20-man staff of liquor investigators.

He said he didn't know when he would make the protest but that it would be before a pending bill which would remove virtually everything but the taxing provisions of the fair trade liquor act is voted on.

The investigators are employed under provisions of the act.

However, Rep. Robert Harvey of Jackson county, who introduced the bill, said it was designed only to eliminate the act's price-fixing features.

He said he wasn't against employment of investigators, but thought that with price-fixing removed from the act, fewer would be needed.

Making Planes Takes Time for Conversion

Los Angeles, Jan. 11 — (AP) — It will take the aircraft industry at least a year to begin producing half as many planes as it did in the other war, a survey of main plants in southern California indicated today.

President Truman has called for production capacity of 50,000 planes annually in the present emergency.

Planners here claim they can expand to any capacity required if they get the necessary materials, tools, and manpower.

A spokesman for Douglas Aircraft Corp., said the industry turned out military planes at the rate of nearly 100,000 a year during the peak period of World War II. Douglas is producing at one-fourth of its wartime output and would have to double its production to reach the President's quota.

Hays Slated for Foreign Committee

Washington, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Frank H. Hays, Roosevelt, Jr., and B. Carroll Reece, former chairman of the Republican national committee, are among six house members slated today for assignment to the enlarged foreign affairs committee.

Roosevelt, a New Yorker elected on the Democrat and liberal tickets, is a son of the former President.

He and two other Democrats scheduled to get the foreign posts are known as Capitol Hill "Fair Dealers." The other two are Reps. Chet Holt of California and Edna F. Kelley of New York.

The fourth Democrat is Brooks Hays of Arkansas, who has followed administration foreign policy generally but has opposed some of President Truman's domestic program.

In addition to Reece, who resigned from the house to become chairman of the GOP national committee and has returned this year, Republicans have chosen Rep. Herter of Massachusetts for the foreign affairs committee.

Democrats and three vacancies on the committee and Republicans one as a result of last November's elections. Each party reportedly will gain one seat in the present congress.

The committee assignments have been approved tentatively by Democratic and Republican caucuses on committees. They are subject to ratification by the membership of each party. Democrats plan to caucus Friday; Republicans early next week.

Republican leaders have chosen Rep. Ellsworth of Oregon and Latham of New York for their two vacancies on the powerful committee.

Democrats have not disclosed the identity of the member they have selected for the rules committee to succeed John McSweeney of Ohio, who was defeated last November. It is understood, however, that their choice is Rep. Mitchell D. Washburn, a "Fair Deal" supporter.

The rules group is now dominated by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats. Addition of one all-out Truman supporter would not shift the balance of power.

Republicans are reported to have agreed to assign Rep. Potter of Michigan to the un-American activities committee while Rep. Frazier B. Tamm is reported to have been tapped for the Democratic vacancy on that committee.

The only independent in the house, Frazier Remans of Ohio, may win an assignment to the postoffice and civil service committee.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City was founded in 1870.

Tackett said he was informed of his new post.

Tackett said he was pleased at being named on a "controversial" committee. The labor and education committee handles all labor legislation and school bills, including those proposing federal aid to education.

Tackett said he believes congress can pass legislation "fair, equitable, just and satisfactory to both labor and management although it can't satisfy both the capitalists and the labor leaders."

He said he also believes congress can work out some "middle of the road legislation" for schools.

Only Lockheed proposes any major alteration in its World War II production methods. Previously Lockheed sub-contracted work to 1500 small plants. The company now plans to have six larger firms do the same work.

Army Engineers Assume Wartime Jurisdiction

Little Rock, Jan. 11 — (AP) — The Little Rock district, U. S. army engineers, has resumed its wartime jurisdiction.

Col. Hans W. Homer, district engineer, said yesterday air force and army construction in all of Arkansas and the north half of Louisiana had been placed under supervision of the district.

That's the way it was during World War Two. But since July 1, 1947, the Little Rock district has been strictly for civil works. Responsibility for military construction in its area was transferred to the Tulsa district.

The change will bring a gradual increase in military and civilian personnel of the Little Rock district as the military program expands, Col. Homer said.

Tackett to Gain Seat on Important Committees

Washington, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Rep. Tackett D. Ark. is slated for assignment to the house labor and education committee in this congress.

Assignments aren't to be announced officially until Friday but Tackett said he has been informed of his new post.

Why Settle for Symptomatic Relief • Read How Just a Few of Thousands Have Relieved the Cause of Such Deficiencies with HADACOL!

Mr. Homer Haines, D.D., Newport, Ohio: "I have been having aches for a long time and I did everything I could to help without success. So I took these bottles of HADACOL. I sure feel good now. I couldn't hardly do anything before, but now I can do everything I want and I feel like a new man. I feel like I am thirty years old."

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, the Man Responsible for Today's Great HADACOL

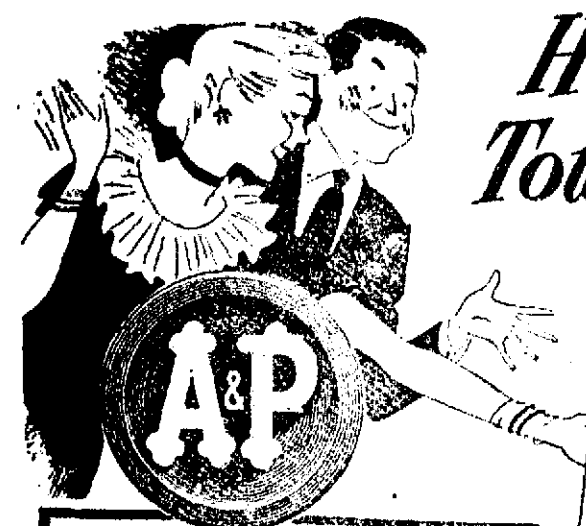

Senator LeBlanc has been in public life since he was quite a young man and he has always advocated the cause of the oppressed and the downtrodden. It was he who introduced the law in Louisiana that gives every deserving man and woman in Louisiana a pension of $500. It was he who introduced the law creating the office of Service Commissioner, the duties of which office it is to see that every deserving ex-soldier and veteran receives his just reward from the Federal and State Government. It was he who has consistently fought the battle of the school teachers in the battle of the legislature; he worked untiringly for the farmers and the laboring man.

In view of the fact that this man has worked so unselfishly for your cause and in your behalf, don't you believe that it was reasonable to assume that in his untiring efforts he would someday find something to make his life better, rendering government assistance?

The word "HADACOL" has become a household word throughout this Nation. Read the testimonials on this page. Ask your friends who have taken HADACOL the benefits they have received. Don't let this chance pass you by.

Kidnaping Report Causes Roadblock to Be Set Up

Paris, Jan. 10.—A report of a possible kidnaping caused officers to set up road blocks between here and the Oklahoma border yesterday without success.

A crowd of Port Smith, a truck driver, reported to Sheriff Roy Carter that an automobile, traveling westward on highway 22, carried a man and a woman, blond and grizzled, in the rear seat.

Carter and the driver was a man, who he described only as appearing to be a white-headed and in his 30's.

Officers found no trace of car or occupants.

The report of a kidnaping museum in the area is operated by the American Numismatic Society in New York City. The museum features gold, medals and decorative items.

Farmers Told to Buy Lime, Fertilizer Now

Order lime and fertilizer early and help make the best use of the limited transportation that will be available for other than defense preparations, urges Cecil F. Guthrie, County Administrative Officer of Hempstead County PMA Committee.

Buying or ordering fertilizer this winter is particularly important for cotton growers who expect to increase their acreage in 1951. There are a great many operations involved in the mining, manufacturing and distribution of fertilizers. Transportation is needed about every step between the raw material and the farmer.

If the railroad and trucking companies have enough time to furnish the transportation they will be able to provide all that is needed.

Orders pile up just before planting season neither the transportation nor the fertilizer manufacturing facilities can meet the peak load. The result of that would be that some one would have to go without fertilizer. It is for this reason, that we are urging farmers to get their orders in early.

Then the lime crushers and fertilizer manufacturers will be able to operate at capacity and the transportation companies will have time to move raw materials to the processing plants and the finished products into the areas where needed by the farmers.

The better the pasture the more conservation of soil and water. And the more conservation of soil and water the better the pasture. Without saying which comes first, The Administrative Officer calls attention to a number of ways in which a good pasture safeguards the Nation's soil security and protects the food and fiber supply of the country.

He further explains the conservation value of pasture in this way: Land that is in grass and legumes—where there is a good stand and vigorous growth—has about the best possible protection against erosion. The thick covering is a protection against splash erosion, the covering vegetation breaking the fall of the rain drops, slowing down run off and allowing more of the moisture to soak into the soil.

In addition, the maze of roots fills the surface soil holds the soil particles together so they are not washed away when the rains come. The roots also add organic matter to the soil, improving the structure and further protecting the land against erosion. By taking up plant food in the process of growth and holding it in the plant, leaching losses are reduced.

Legumes have an added value since the bacteria which are associated with legumes takes nitrogen from the air and add it to the soil. The nitrogen in turn helps to increase the growth and vigor of both the grasses and legumes. Where soils are deficient in phosphorus the Agricultural Conservation Program provides assistance to aid farmers in obtaining and using superphosphate on pastureland.

In this case, the chairman explains, superphosphate is the spark that starts off the whole chain of stops which are summed up in the statement—better pastures mean more conservation of soil and water—and more conservation of soil and water means better pastures.

The Hempstead County Committee reminds all farmers of the County that January 15, 1951 is the final date for reporting their 1950 agricultural conservation practices. Practices reported after the above date cannot be accepted for payment. Therefore farmers desiring to claim payment for practices carried out in 1950 must report them to the county PMA office not later than January 15.

Materials furnished under purchase order and not reported by the final date referred to above will be considered a misstatement of the material. The committee urges every farmer who has not already done so to report to the county office as soon as possible.

More Data on Calling Youths Requested

Washington, Jan. 11 — (AP) — A Senate committee asked today for more information on administration proposals to draft 18-year-olds into the armed services and set up a universal military training program.

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, was called back for questioning by the Senate subcommittee on defense before which she and Secretary Marshall unveiled the proposals yesterday.

The defense department officials said then that a bill containing the new program would reach Congress next week. They added that it was backed by President Truman.

Congressional reaction to the program varied, with some senators in favor and others suggesting a delay of at least a year and six months. The present draft law limits actual inductions to the 18 through 23 year age bracket although young men must register when 18.

Mrs. Rosenberg agreed with senators that it might be possible to fill immediate manpower needs for the next year or two without lowering the age limit, provided there is no war or all-out mobilization. "But we have to come up to Congress for an end in mind every few months," she added.

Mrs. Rosenberg estimated that 1,000,000 young men would reach 18 in the year beginning next July 1 and that 400,000 of these could be inducted into the services.

Secretary Marshall and his assistant presented the broad universal military service and training proposal as a permanent plan for meeting both the immediate needs for emergency expansion of the armed services and the long-term obligation of defending the nation.

They both urged that the present 12 month service by draftees be extended to a minimum of 27 months.

This brought a protest from Senator Russell D. Gray, chairman of armed services committee. He said President Truman's order freezing all armed services personnel in service for an additional year already applied to draftees.

THE newspaper in May's hands gave an accurate account of the incident in the subway, elaborating in full detail on the panic of the woman who accompanied the child who, "although disguised as a boy was described to police by more than a dozen witnesses in such detail that the officers were satisfied it was Judy Twing."

There was also a fairly good description of May although the passengers apparently had not noticed her as closely as they had watched Judy.

The account also stated that a dragnet had been ordered to comb New York for Judy Twing and the mysterious woman who accompanied the child.

May Jenkins dropped the paper and stared out of the window with unseeing eyes. It was worse than she had imagined it would be. She had hoped that there would be some official skepticism as to whether or not the child really was Judy Twing, but now she realized how wishful her thinking had been.

How thorough is a dragnet? Would the cab driver who had carried her home this morning see the article and identify his passenger? The clerk in the drug store where they had eaten breakfast? The woman in the restaurant who had seen them?

Charles Rules Odds Over Lee Oma

New York, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Calm, confident Ezzard Charles remained a solid 1 to 6 favorite today to retain his heavyweight championship against the challenge of unorthodox Lee Oma at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The sharp-punching Cincinnati champ also was listed as a 1 to 2 favorite to stop the Buffalo fighter before the 15 rounds are over.

There was very little betting here on either the outcome or a knockout. But interest in the fight has picked up and there is a good possibility the International Boxing club's predictions of a 12,000 crowd and a $65,000 gross will be fulfilled.

Charles' sixth title defense will be interesting and broadcast.

The 29-year-old champion wound up his boxing preparations yesterday with a flashy four-round workout. He looked fast and fit when he completed his fourth and last round.

Asked if he planned to go for a knockout, Ezzard said, "I'm going out to win. If I can knock him out, I'll do it. I'll see what happens in there."

Charles made no special effort in training to cope with Oma's style. Oma walks away from opponents in a style somewhat similar to that of Jersey Joe Walcott, who was beaten by Charles.

Oma, who finished boxing Tuesday, just limbered up yesterday. "I'm in good shape," said the 34-year-old Oma. "I've never trained like this before. I'm ready."

He wasn't kidding about the training. His limit before amounted to sparring a few rounds. Why work too hard when you're not getting paid, was the way he usually regarded training.

Now, at the height of a checked career, he's getting a world title shot and he's making a real try. He indicated that he planned to discard some of his previous ring tricks.

"I've slowed up a bit and I'll have to do more fighting and less of the shuffling," said Oma. "I'm more flatfooted and I'll try to use more power."

Oma has never gone 15 rounds before but the distance doesn't faze him.

"My legs are good. We'll see what happens."

Egg Rolling
First Easter eggs were rolled on the White House lawn in 1873. President Hayes invited the children of the city to roll their eggs on the lawn of the White House, and it became an annual event.

Relatively Speaking
Henry Lamar, Harvard freshman football coach and boxing tutor, will double in brass by speaking to Harvard alumni clubs through the southwest while he's here for the football coaches convention. . . . What makes that unusual is that Henry is a grand nephew of Marbure Bonaparte Lamar, second president of Texas and founder of the state's great educational system. . . . And one of the gents he'll meet is H. R. Cullen, who gave 5 1-2 million bucks to the University of Houston, a school which might interest so full of new, vibrant activity she had had little or no chance to think of anything other than problems of the moment.

Without surprise she faced the revelation that she loved Paul. He was everything she felt a man should be. His courage, sincerity, and the winning simplicity of his easy manner and speech had won her collaboration when first they had met. The confidence and respect he had implanted in her had grown to something much deeper and warmer. She didn't question it. She loved him.

She looked out of the window. . . .

A CAR pulled up in front of the house. May stifled and watched two men climb out. She saw the landlady run down the stoop and go up to them. May's heart missed a beat. Slowly she rose and stood at one side of the window looking down at the group through the dust gray curtains. The landlady was talking to the men with great emphasis. Twice she pointed up to the second floor window and the men's eyes followed the gesture.

Two stout women who had been gossiping in front of the house next door joined them.

May's knees sagged. She clutched the frame of the window and leaned heavily against the wall. Her breathing was strained and shallow. She was acutely conscious of the sudden trance-like immobility that she had thrown off, but she was unable to throw it off. Then she saw the men detach themselves from the group and start up the stone stoop.

With a violent thrust May pushed herself from the window. Her frenzied eyes swept the room. The sudden movement startled the children. They stared at her in wonder.

Heavy tread on the steps reached May. It accelerated her thinking, her action. She seized Judy and pushed her into the shallow closet. May's voice was a hurried hoarse whisper. "Not a sound till I call you! Not a sound!" She pushed the door shut and wheeled on Harry who had slipped off the bed and was gaping at her in wide-eyed astonishment.

That had taken less than a half hour and the elongated minutes and hours that remained before rejoining Paul spread themselves before her tauntingly. Thinking of Paul in the abstract, not in connection with the new difficulties that confronted them, proved to be an excellent sedative.

May found that she was hungry in her bed. Since the night before she had not eaten a bite of food.

THE children lay across the bed on their stomachs reading a comic book. She was grateful for their quiet occupation. She read the newspaper article a second and then a third time. Finally she decided to change her dress and rearrange her hair. When she was through with that, she made Judy change her clothes.

Judy protested that her clothes were clean, but May tempted her into compliance with a new outfit boasting long pants that she had purchased in Wheeling. Harry was disgusted but stooped himself in the comic book and paid no attention.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Dallas, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Latest hot one from the NCAA rumor market is that Fritz Chrysler, ex-coach and Michigan athletic director, is in line for the presidency of that university when the present incumbent, Alexander Grant Ruthven, retires in the near future.

It's certain that Fritz is smart enough for the job and that he's had enough education, even if he doesn't hold the usual number of honorary degrees. . . . And one of the best laughs from this hotheaded rumors about sanity code fireworks is that two athletic directors, rooming together more or less by accident, have as their neighbor Dr. Clarence P. Houston, chairman of the compliance committee.

And, just to confuse the issue about the political lineup on this "sanity" business, the representative of stout old Yale, Bob Hall, says he's going to suggest that the NCAA drop the whole idea of enforcement. . . . It will just make it worse if they have rules that will let schools do almost anything and if they can't enforce them," says Bob. . . . And southern "insider" comes out with the flat prediction that it's going to be settled just that way.

End Of The Line
Story kicking around Virginia is that the U. of Richmond may abandon football. As of now Richmond is minus a coach and admittedly in wrong on the "sanity" setup. . . . The outfit which produced the laminated but which is interesting college baseball coaches—Forest Products Laboratory—was the one which helped solve the famous Lindbergh kidnapping by its analysis of wood in a ladder. . . . Prediction from a safe distance: St. John's to knock off Bradley's basketball team. We think Frank McGuire's boys are smart and adaptable enough to do it.

Liberals Are Confident at NCCA Session

Dallas, Jan. 11 — (AP) — Confidence arose among the liberals of the National Collegiate Athletic association today that an amendment softening the sanity code governing financial aid to athletes will be passed.

Some flays predicted the NCAA constitution would be amended to place enforcement of the code in the hands of the individual schools and conferences. This will require a two-thirds majority on the floor of the convention when showdown meeting comes tomorrow.

Passage of such an amendment also probably would mean that seven schools not now in compliance with the code would escape going on trial before the convention.

There were ten schools on the blast list until yesterday when the compliance committee reported to the council and executive committee of the NCAA that three of them had been found to have attained compliance.

Names of the schools were not announced but Dr. Hugh Willett of Southern California, president of the NCAA, said the schools thus cleared might announce it themselves.

The sanity code as it now stands provides for tuition and fees with all other needs of the athletes to be worked for. Some of the liberals want to give financial benefits on the basis of need without the athlete having to work for what he gets.

Meeting today was the committee on television headed by Tom Hamilton of Pittsburgh. Generally it was predicted that the NCAA would vote a resolution calling for the banning of television of football games on grounds telecasting hurt attendance. Most of the conferences already have banned television or head off from commitments until after the convention.

Little Rock, Jan. 10 — (AP) — Aubrey Smith, St. Francis county Negro, has asked the Arkansas Supreme court to set aside his first degree murder conviction and death sentence for the slaying of a deputy officer.

Smith is scheduled to die in the electric chair Jan. 24 for the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff Ray Campbell of Forrest City last Aug. 2.

Ed Dawson, Negro, also is under sentence of death in the case. His conviction was set aside by the Arkansas Supreme court last week.

Not Wise to Sell Timber Too Early

Many Arkansas farmers are finding out for themselves it isn't such a wise idea to sell the timber on their land as soon as it's large enough for pulpwood and large sawlogs.

Even so, there are still a few individuals who sell their stands of well-stocked, immature pine for a lump payment of several hundred dollars. And, the purchaser has the right to clear out anything in sight.

Some owners of such timber stand often think they are getting a good deal says County Agent, Oliver L. Adams.

Wood products such as pulpwood, fence posts and even sawlogs can be cut from the dense, young stands of timber. Hempstead County farmers are finding it very unwise and uneconomical — even in this day of high prices — to clear cut young stands when they are growing at the fastest rate.

In most cases, the well-spaced pine tree four to six inches in diameter will increase from 70 to 120 per cent in volume and value for every increase in diameter. However, it takes about three years for a tree to grow an inch in diameter.

Figuring it mathematically, farmers make from 22 to 40 per cent profit by letting the timber grow. Trees ten to 14 inches in diameter — those about small saw-log size — will increase in value at about the same rate if they're left standing.

The County Agent offers the following information to serve as a guide when checking which trees to cut and which to leave. Trees to cut: crooked or poorly formed trees; weaker crowned trees in dense stands and "wolf" trees overtopping young growth; over-mature trees with a red heart; fire-scarred, insect damaged or diseased trees; and those that are poorly situated.

Trees that should be left are those that are the straightest and best formed, the young, fast-growing ones with strong, thrifty crowns; healthy trees free from injury; and those out in the open areas needed to furnish seed.

Hempstead County farmers may secure the assistance of Robert E. Nelson, Extension Farm Forester, in timber improvement by advising County Agent Adams.

U. S. Nearly Through in Perjury Trial

New York, Jan. 10 — (AP) — The government may rest its perjury case against William W. Remington today with the calling of a surprise witness.

The 33-year-old former commerce department economist is accused of lying when he denied before a federal grand jury that he ever had been a Communist party member.

Prosecution officials would not identify the new witness.

However, it was reported unofficially that he is a midwestern businessman and former friend of the defendant. It is understood that he is not a former Communist party member.

His testimony would follow further cross examination by the defense of Miss Elizabeth Bentley, self-accused wartime courier for Communist spies.

During day-long interrogation by the defense yesterday, Miss Bentley maintained that only her conscience led her to tell the FBI that Remington had given her secret information.

"I want to show that the witness has an interest in the prosecution of the defendant," defense Counsel William C. Chandler said.

But Miss Bentley replied that a "good, old New England" conscience "led her to sever connections with the party. She added that her exposure of Communist tactics came after deciding that "this was my country and that it was a good country."

Miss Bentley admitted that she is writing a book, presumably an account of her underground work. She has sworn that it was in this work that she knew Remington as a fellow Communist. She denied that newspaper stories billing her as a "blonde spy queen" were part of a publicity build up. She said she had complained about the stories.

After Chandler had spent about two hours trying, as he said, to "establish a basis to show the motive of the witness in this case," Judge Gregory F. Noonan intervened.

The judge said it still sounded immaterial to him and added: "Certainly it can't just go on like Tennyson's brew."

Believes Meat Price Control Is a Mistake

Washington, Jan. 10 — (AP) — Senator Aiken said today price control on meat or any other food at this time would create short ages and generally be a "bad mistake."

The Vermont senator, senior Republican on the senate agriculture committee, said food prices "are not generally at a level that warrants controls."

Increases which have occurred during the last few months, have been caused at least in part "by the administration's constant hints that price control is coming," Aiken said.

As he voiced these views, the nation's livestock industry sought to convince government officials that price controls on meat, instead of putting plenty on consumer tables at favorable prices, would bring back black markets, backyard slaughtering and short-ages.

Spokesmen for more than 20 organizations representing producers of beef cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs and organized meat slaughterers, processors and packers arranged to lay their arguments before a closed conference today, at the agriculture department.

Officials who agreed to listen included Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, economic stabilization Administrator Alan Valentine and price Director Michael V. Disalle.

For the meat industry, the task appeared to be one of changing the mind of Valentine and Disalle on the need for price controls. Valentine said Monday the government would attempt to control meat prices as soon as possible. He indicated such a move might be accompanied by rationing to cut demand.

Senator Dwyorshak (R-Idaho) made public today a letter from Disalle in which the price director expressed similar views but pointed out that a careful study will be made before any action is taken.

Declaring that congress obviously intended stabilization officials to do all that was necessary to combat inflation, Disalle wrote: "The stabilization of wages without a check on the cost of living has little chance of success. Since all foods and particularly meat are important factors in the cost of living, they must at the present time be brought under control if a program of stabilization is to serve the purpose for which it is intended."

Brannan has not committed himself publicly on the wisdom of meat controls. Department livestock experts, however, are known to have about the same viewpoint currently as the industry.
